Summary

I am a dedicated college student currently in the seventh semester, excelling in programming courses and demonstrating a strong commitment to academic excellence.

Furthermore, I completed a technical course in programming that not only provided a solid foundation but also ignited a true passion for the field. This educational background has equipped me with a deep understanding of key programming concepts and technologies.

In practical terms, I have actively applied my skills by developing web and mobile projects for various clients. Using advanced technologies such as ReactJS and React Native, I have created solutions that deliver exceptional user experiences.

My adaptability and ability to learn quickly have allowed me to seamlessly integrate these applications with various APIs, ensuring efficient functionality and personalized services.

In summary, I am a passionate and responsible individual who thrives on challenges and seeks continuous professional growth in the dynamic field of programming and technology.
